INTRODUCTION

1. INTRODUCTION

1.1. An international federation for skyrunning (running at altitude) was founded in 2008. The International Skyrunning Federation, hereinafter ISF, was created to promote, govern and administer the sport of skyrunning and similar multi-sports activities.

1.2. The ISF undertakes to diffuse the practice of skyrunning with respect for the environment, to promote private and public sports events, to develop training schemes and to foster the physical welfare of competitors. The ISF aims to administer the sport of skyrunning, competitions and events as an independent International Federation with its own legal entity.

1.3. The International Skyrunning Federation (ISF) is responsible for all aspects of international skyrunning and associated mountain multi-sports competitions at altitude. The principal purposes of the ISF are the direction, regulation, promotion, development and furtherance of the sport of skyrunning and high altitude multi-sports on a worldwide basis.

1.4. The ISF fosters links, networks and friendly relations among its members, their athletes and officials. The ISF is the final authority for all matters concerning skyrunning and similar mountain multi-sports competitions at altitude.

1.5. The ISF is a non-governmental international association with a non-profit-making purpose of international interest, having legal personality pursuant to Art. 60 ff. of the Swiss Civil Code. The ISF seat is in Switzerland.

1.6. These regulations aim to be the international reference for worldwide skyrunning competitions and to represent a guideline for national competition regulations. The purpose of these rules is to describe the obligations and rights of competitors who participate in the official ISF international skyrunning competitions and those that organise them.

1.7. The official language of the ISF is English.

1.8. The ISF official calendar is based on races organised by third parties who are financially solvent and have demonstrated the capacity to hold international standard events. The ISF has the task of coordinating the international race calendar and applying the official rules in these races.

1.9. Local race regulations must be consistent with the official ISF rules. In the event of conflict, the ISF rules and the decision of the ISF Referees will prevail.

2. DEFINITIONS

2.1. SKYRUNNER

An athlete who competes in skyrunning disciplines.

2.2. SKYRUNNING

Skyrunning is defined as the sport of running on mountain terrain on low, medium and high altitude with a steep incline. Hands and certain equipment may be used to aid progress according to specific rules. Technical sections are inherent to the sport, but the climbing difficulty must not exceed II^o grade (UIAA). Events may be held year-round.

2.2.1. SKYRUNNING DISCIPLINES

Skyrunning disciplines are listed and defined in detail below. Courses must have a 6% minimum average incline over the total distance and at least 5% of the total distance must have an incline of 30% or more. The climbing difficulty must not exceed II^o grade UIAA and the finishing time must be under 16 hours.

Asphalt must be less than 15% of the total distance.

Races that reach over 4,000m altitude can except the usual parameters.

2.2.1.1. SKY

Races between 20 km and 45 km long. A tolerance of 5% in length is accepted.

2.2.1.1.1. YOUTH PARAMETERS – For Youth A and Youth B categories the SKY parameters are reduced:

- Distance: 8-14 km
- Vertical climb: from 600m to 1300m with minimum 6% average incline
- Whenever possible a peak must be reached

2.2.1.1.2. UPHILL ONLY RACES – Races that are only uphill must have an average incline of at least 12%

2.2.1.2. SKYULTRA

Races between 50 km and 80 km long. A tolerance of 5% in length is accepted.

2.2.1.3. VERTICAL

Uphill only races with minimum 800m vertical climb over variable terrain. The minimum average incline must be 20% and 5% of the total distance must be over 33% incline.

A tolerance of 5% in the minimum height is accepted.

2.2.1.4. SKYSPEED

Races with 100m vertical climb and a minimum of 33% incline. A tolerance of 5% in the vertical climb is accepted.

2.2.2. SKYSNOW

Races on snow (at least 70%) with the compulsory use of approved micro-crampons (see 30.1). Courses must have a 5% minimum average incline over the total distance and at least 5% of the total distance has an incline of 15% or more. Two disciplines are defined:

2.2.2.1. SKYSNOW VERTICAL

Uphill only races between 500m and 1,000m vertical climb, not exceeding 5 km in length with a minimum 15% incline.

2.2.2.2. SKYSNOW CLASSIC

Races over 9 km length with a minimum average incline of 5%

2.2.3. STAIRCLIMBING

Vertical races with an incline over 45% on stairs indoors or outdoors. The minimum vertical climb is 100m. Different disciplines may be defined.

2.2.4. SKYBIKE

Duathlons consisting of a road bike or mountain bike race with a skyrunning competition.

2.2.5. SKYRAID

Skyrunning team races over long distances possibly combining other sports such as cycling, skiing, climbing etc.

2.3. SKYRUNNING TECHNICAL LEVELS

Additional factors such as average incline, altitude, moraine, ridges, snow fields, glaciers, etc, may be used to define the technical level of a course.

TECHNICAL RACE GUIDELINES

8. SPORT AND TECHNICAL ISSUES

8.1. THE ISF RACE JURY

8.1.1. COMPOSITION

The ISF Race Jury is composed of:

- LOC Race Director
- ISF Event Coordinator
- ISF Jury President
- ISF Referees

8.1.2. COMPETENCE

The ISF Race Jury has the competence to:

- Take decisions in respect of the requirements of the ISF Rules
- Take decisions concerning any issue for which the ISF Rules might seem incomplete or unclear

8.1.3. DECISIONS

Decisions are taken by the majority of members of the group. In the situation of a draw, the vote taken by the ISF Jury President prevails.

ISF Race Jury	Decisions
LOC Race director	Right to vote
ISF Event Coordinator	Right to vote
ISF Jury President	Right to vote
ISF Referees	Right to vote

Restricted voting rights are applied to decisions on behaviour and protest:

ISF Race Jury	Decisions
LOC Race director	NO
ISF Event Coordinator	NO
ISF Jury President	Right to vote
ISF Referees	Right to vote

In these cases, decisions are taken by the majority of the ISF Race Jury members having the right to vote. In case of a tie for decisions concerning offences and penalties, the vote taken by the ISF Jury President prevails. For decisions on protests, unanimity is required. If a protest involves one ISF Referee, this one loses the right to vote.

8.2. START AND FINISH AREAS

The start and finish areas contain technical installations necessary for the proper organisation and execution of the race. Both areas are of fundamental importance for the management aspects and advertising right of the ISF and LOC: The start and finish areas must have restricted access and must be fenced by barriers.

Start and finish areas must comply with the following:

- Accreditation compulsory for access (for the athletes, bib is acceptable)
- Fences to separate it from other areas
- Toilets in the vicinity
- Medical assistance area
- Spectators zone outside the start/finish area

Start and finish areas consists of:

- Race bib and start list control area
- Compulsory material check area only for authorised staff (ISF Race Jury, ISF and National Referees and dedicated volunteers)
- System for timing
- In case of doping tests, chaperones to escort the athletes to the control area (see 20.3.2)

Start and finish areas must guarantee space for 20m banners with ISF branding to be placed close to the start/finish, 6 ISF flags to be placed in the first 15m after the start and the last before the finish line. A finish line mat with ISF branding is also compulsory. The placement of such branding will be decided together with the ISF

The placement of such branding will be decided in coordination with the:

- ISF Event Coordinator
- ISF Marketing and Media Coordinator
- Media and TV team responsible

8.3. MASS START

This is the usual start method for all disciplines. All athletes have the same start time given by the starter order.

VERTICAL and STAIRCLIMBING disciplines might have individual or wave start, depending on the race course.

8.4. INDIVIDUAL START

When the race course is not suitable for a mass or wave start, athletes can start one by one in a time trial type of race. The interval between the athletes can be between 30 seconds to one minute.

The set-up of the start includes a clock to show the timing to the athletes, with an ISF Referee giving the start order to each athlete at the exact start time.

8.5. TEAM RACES

When races are to be run in pairs, the team must cross the start and finish line together. Even if it is not necessary to be roped up, runners cannot be distant from one another.

Team members must share the bib number to identify the team.

The time of the team is taken when the second team member crosses the finish line.

8.6. CHANGES TO THE EVENT

8.6.1. COURSE CHANGE

Course changes are the responsibility of the LOC Race Director. The ISF Event Coordinator and the ISF Jury President must be informed immediately about such changes. Any changes to the course must be announced as soon as possible (via email, SMS, social media, etc) and before the start by the speaker.

If, due to safety reasons, the race course must be changed after the event started, such change must be communicated to the ISF Event Coordinator and the ISF Jury President immediately. The staff on the course must be advised accordingly to direct the athletes on the new course.

8.6.2. BAD WEATHER COURSE

All events must have a bad weather course to be put in place for safety reasons. Such courses should comply to the skyrunning parameters as detailed in 2.2, but can except the parameters if not possible.

The ISF must be informed of these alternative courses beforehand.

8.6.3. CUT-OFF TIMES CHANGE

The LOC Race Director can decide, after informing the ISF Event Coordinator and the ISF Jury President, for safety reason or to better accommodate the athletes, to modify the cut-off times, extending or reducing them when deemed necessary.

If this decision is taken before the competition, all athletes must be advised in the pre-start update.

If the decision is taken during the competition, the race staff must inform the athletes at the cut-off points and/or aid stations.

8.6.4. RACE DELAY OR CANCELLATION

Races may be delayed or cancelled due to extreme weather conditions, safety concerns or unforeseen technical problems. The decision to delay or cancel a race is taken by the ISF Race Jury.

During the maximum delay of 4 hours, athletes must have access to nutrition and waiting area. If the race does not start within the 4-hour time frame, the ISF Race Jury will officially cancel the race.

In case the race must be suspended or cancelled after the event started, the athletes must be advised by the race staff as soon as possible and directed to the exit routes to minimize the risks.

8.6.5. EVENT OR RACE RESCHEDULE

The possibility to reschedule an event or a race at a later date is decided by the ISF and the LOC who must be in full agreement. The new date must not cause problems with the ISF calendar.

In this case, the NMs, in consultation with the ISF should do everything in their power to ensure participation on the day selected for the rescheduling.

8.7. RESULTS

Results are to be produced according to the ISF requirements.

The LOC must take arrangements so that the ISF and the NMs are informed about the platform where the results are published online.

Timekeepers must send the final ranking immediately after it's approved by the ISF Jury President to the ISF Ranking Manager and the ISF office.

8.8. CHECK POINT

A check point is an area where the athletes' bibs are noted. It may coincide with an aid station or can be set up at significant points along the route: summits, passes, forks or junctions, etc.

Marshals must be equipped with radios or other communication devices and be able to communicate with race headquarters. Marshals must take note when competitors pass through their checkpoint and record their arrival order and time and register retirements. If the race is cancelled or stopped marshals must advise the runners and direct them to the nearest safe zone.

Marshals must immediately report any infractions of the rules or offences committed by competitors to race headquarters.

8.9. AID STATION

The LOC must set up aid station(s) along the course to provide sufficient supplies at the athletes. It is recommended to provide liquid supplies every 5 km for the SKY discipline and 10 km for SKYULTRA discipline or every 800 meters of vertical climb (whichever is first met). At least one aid station will provide solid food at the halfway point in the race. Near the finish line, a specific area for competitors will provide both solid food and liquids.

Between aid stations, athletes must be self-sufficient.

8.9.1. OUTSIDE ASSISTANCE AT AID STATIONS

Assistance to athletes by team officials is always permitted at aid stations and it can consist in giving food or beverages to the athletes. Team officials can also give or take materials, provided that the athlete has the compulsory equipment at all times. It is possible to leave or take poles, only if permitted by the race rules.

External assistance is permitted only in the 100m around the aid station area. If the space is enough, areas dedicated for each country, marked with national flags, can be set-up to give assistance to team members.

The organisers are responsible for removing litter around the aid stations, as well as all markings and signage relative to the aid station itself.

8.9.2. OTHER ASSISTANCE POINTS

In the event too few aid stations are available, other points of assistance to competitors may be agreed on between the LOC Race Director, the ISF Event Coordinator and ISF Jury President.

8.10. FURTHER DETAILS

- First medical assistance must arrive to any point of the course as soon as possible
- Courses should be marked at least one day before the event to let referees and/or athletes inspect the course.

Only races with individual or wave start may have a tie.

In case two or more athletes cross the finish line at the same time, an electronic system or photo-finish may be used to resolve the tie. In the event neither of the previous options are resolved, the final decision will be made by the ISF Race Jury.

15. MEDALS

15.1. AWARDING MEDALS

Medals are awarded to the top three men and women in each discipline in each ISF Championship. Medals can be awarded only if there are at least five starters in a given category in a specific discipline.

If a race has less than five starters in a given category, no medals are awarded for said category.

15.2. MEDAL TABLE

A medal table is made for each ISF Championship. The order in said table is determined by:

- Number of gold medals
- Then number of silver medals
- Then number of bronze medals

16. PERFORMANCE RANKINGS

16.1. GENERAL PRINCIPLES

Performance based rankings are established to rate athletes' performances with an algorithm.

All athletes participating in at least two races that got the Certified Course Label are inserted in the rankings.

16.2. PERIOD

Two Performance ranking are established. The two-year ranking considers all the races disputed in the last two years preceding the current date, while the 365-days ranking only considers the races disputed in the last 365 days.

16.3. SCORE AND POINTS

The algorithm calculates the ranking of each athlete, comparing it with the ideal best performance (1,000 points) and assigns points based on the performance done by the athlete in that race.

The Two-year ranking calculates the average performance considering the best five performances accrued in the period.

The 365-days ranking calculates the average performance considering the best four performances accrued in the period.

Prizes may be awarded to the top ranked athletes at ISF discretion. Prizes may consist in money and/or products provided by the ISF sponsors.

17. RESULTS AND RANKING MANAGEMENT

The ISF Ranking Manager is responsible for establishing the ISF Championships results and ranking, as well as for other circuits directly managed by the ISF.

The ISF Ranking Manager is also responsible for updating the Performance rankings.

18. RANKING PROTEST

A Ranking Protest contests an athlete's rank and/or ranking score from an ISF ranking. This is not a process to claim against a race result.

The protest must be submitted in writing by the NM (or by the athlete, where no NM are present) to the ISF Head Office as soon as possible from the ranking publication.

In case of calculation error, the ISF Ranking Manager is allowed to fix the error and inform the protester.

If the Ranking Protest is not accepted, the ISF Ranking Manager will answer by writing to the protester.
